Lt. Governor's Young Professionals Conference

Lt. Governor Todd Lamb, in many of his talks with young professionals, says it is time to "Beat Texas" at more than just football. Oklahoma needs to "Beat Texas" in terms of economic development, job creation, lower taxes and retention of college graduates.

Oklahomans pride themselves on their entrepreneurial spirit. Research and statistics will be the first to show that Oklahoma is a great place to start a successful business. The idea behind the "Beat Texas" theme is to focus on and highlight the entrepreneurial greats of our state.

The conference's keynote speaker will be Oklahoma State University President Burns Hargis and will include three themed discussion panels:

"CEOs, What Do You Do?"

"Small Businesses, Big Movement"

"Diners, Drive-ins and Dives"

The Lt. Governor will deliver opening and closing remarks and Oklahoma professionals from the fields of banking, online business, computer software, non-profits, retail, food and restaurant, aeronautics, and more will share their insight on Oklahoma's growth and future.
